16 September 2016

A new National Director for Marist Schools Australia, Dr Frank Malloy, has been appointed effective January 2017.

Dr Malloy, who is the current Regional Director for NSW/ACT, will succeed Brother Michael Green.

“I am very pleased to announce this appointment and on behalf of the Marist Association of St Marcellin Champagnat and all Australian Marists, I welcome Dr Malloy to his new position”, said Provincial of the Marist Brothers, Brother Peter Carroll.

“Dr Malloy brings to the role of National Director an enormous breadth of experience and a deep insight into our Marist values.

“He has been associated with the Marists since his early school days at Red Bend Catholic College, Forbes and throughout his professional career, as well as through his significant experience in the wider catholic education sector.

“His roles as a teacher, Assistant Principal and Principal in Catholic secondary schools prepared him for his appointment as Director of Inner West for Catholic Education in the Archdiocese of Sydney in 2008, and then his current position as NSW/ACT Regional Director for Marist Schools Australia at the end of 2011.

“Dr Malloy holds a Bachelor in Education, Masters in Religious Education, and in 2016 completed a Doctorate in Education at Australian Catholic University. For his outstanding doctoral research, he received the Vice Chancellor’s Award for Excellence in Doctoral Training and an ACEL Award for Scholarship.

“We are very pleased to be able to appoint to the leading role in Marist Education in Australia an individual with such an outstanding record in education and the Marist tradition.

“On behalf of all Marists, I would like to acknowledge and thank Brother Michael Green for his enormous contribution and dedication to Marist Schools Australia and know that his work will be continued under the fine leadership of Dr Malloy.

‘And I would like to thank the selection panel for its work and dedication over the past two months in this important task.

“On behalf of all Australian Marists, I congratulate Frank on his appointment and wish him every blessing for the challenges, opportunities and satisfactions that lie ahead.
